

The Longwood

The design of this home is so natural, that you immediately begin to feel at home in it. The key to its ease is a central core, composed of the foyer and central hall, that gives immediate access to all areas of the home. The living room is completely protected from traffic and with your expressive decorating will be a delightful setting for entertaining in conjunction with the formal dining room.

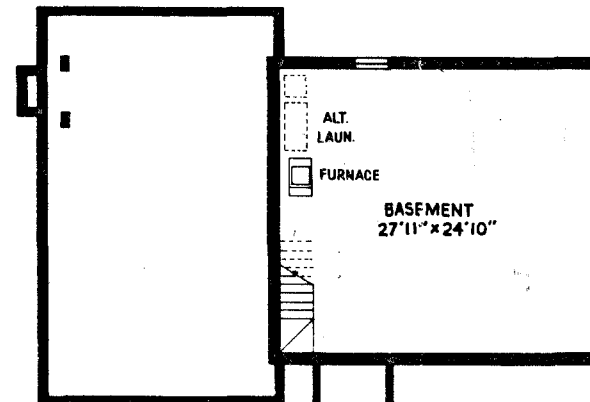

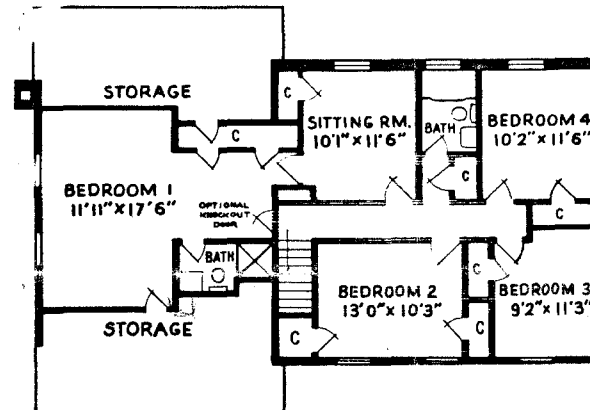

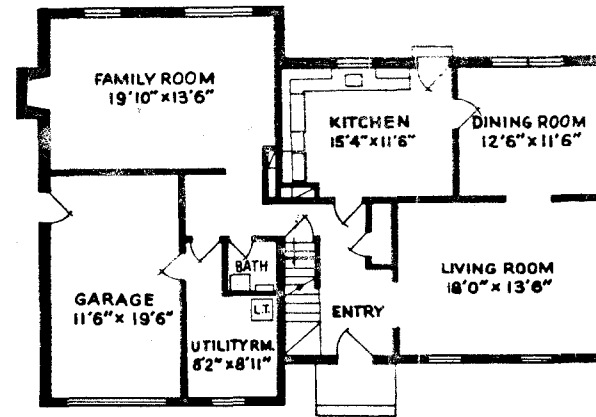

Hospitality will generate from the large, warmly decorated kitchen, located for easy serving to all parts of the home and outside. It has extensive counter space just where it's needed to streamline food preparation and serving and has many handsome wood cabinets. Of course, every Kettler kitchen is fully equipped with modern, efficient appliances. Casual meals will be enjoyed in the large breakfast area, and it's a step from kitchen to dining room.

The family room is buffered by the kitchen, garage and utility area so noisy activities will not disturb people in other parts of the home. It has a wood-burning fireplace with raised hearth, tile floors and decorative box-beam ceiling, making it a wonderful place to relax with family and friends. A sliding glass door creates an indoor-outdoor entertaining area for warm weather.

A first floor laundry room eliminates lots of stair climbing and a powder room is convenient for guests and family.

The second floor is a quiet, very private living area with its own sitting room. This could be used as a study, library, studio or guest room, and a door connects it with the master bedroom suite. The master suite has a private bath, dressing area, double closet and plenty of space for a desk and easy chair. Note the easy-to-reach under eaves storage. The three other bedrooms are each within a few steps of the family bath. A door to the outside at the rear of the garage gives easy access to garden tools. There's space for a workshop or game room and more storage in the basement.

Because the arrangement of the Longwood is adaptable to many different family situations, this is a house that will give increasing pleasure to its owners over the years.
